Design: 'Tsunami'

Design: Steven Smith

Steven Smith graduated in 1983 with an MA in Furniture design from Buckinghamshire College, High Wycombe, having done his first degree in 3D Design at Birmingham Polytechnic prior to this. He set up as a freelance designer in 1991 and, now based in the South East of England, has worked continuously for numerous UK manufacturers including both Allermuir and Senator.

Features

Tsunami is a fresh, unique and stunning design of distinctive character, proportions and presence offering the versatility of a modular format with chair, and table, plus the individual drama of one, two and three seat bench units. Great comfort is provided by the generous upholstery, dished seats and 'wave' backrest, 'floating' above a crisp, rectangular tube frame. The modular nature ensures flexibility by enabling a multitude of layout variations from the formal regimented approach to random arrangements. Offering high levels of comfort and visual stimulation as part of a more engaging working environment, the fluid upholstered seating forms emerge from, or dip into, the contrasting square and geometric bases, which float so effortlessly above the low profile, steel leg frames.

Finishes

All moulded parts can be upholstered in either leather or a wide range of contract quality fabrics. Base frames are available in Regal silver powder coating as standard or satin chrome as an option. Table tops are available in light oak, maple or natural cherry veneers. Feet/glides are black.

Marketplace

Tsunami's striking, bold and distinctive character makes it ideal for reception foyers and lobbies as well as for relaxation and informal meeting points in breakout spaces, as part of the increasing desire for alternative more dynamic workspaces and inspiring environments in today's officescapes.
