I thought maybe it was too much to expect, but I asked anyway. "I need furniture for a temporary personal computer work space. But not just any furniture – it needs to be mobile, adaptable, nicely designed and well engineered. Is there such a thing?" By the smile on her face, I could tell this was not such an odd request. She said, "Meet the Rover family from Versteel – Rover Pup™, Rover Computer™, Rover Utility™ and Rover Daddy™," and my confidence grew. "These four guys have everything you're looking for. With really cool single-wheeled locking casters standard on all models, you can take the Rover family anywhere, and, because Versteel has built them rugged, they'll endure the trip. Plus, they're available in hundreds of surface options, so the Rover family will look handsome no matter where you take them." "Sold. The Rover family is more than I expected."

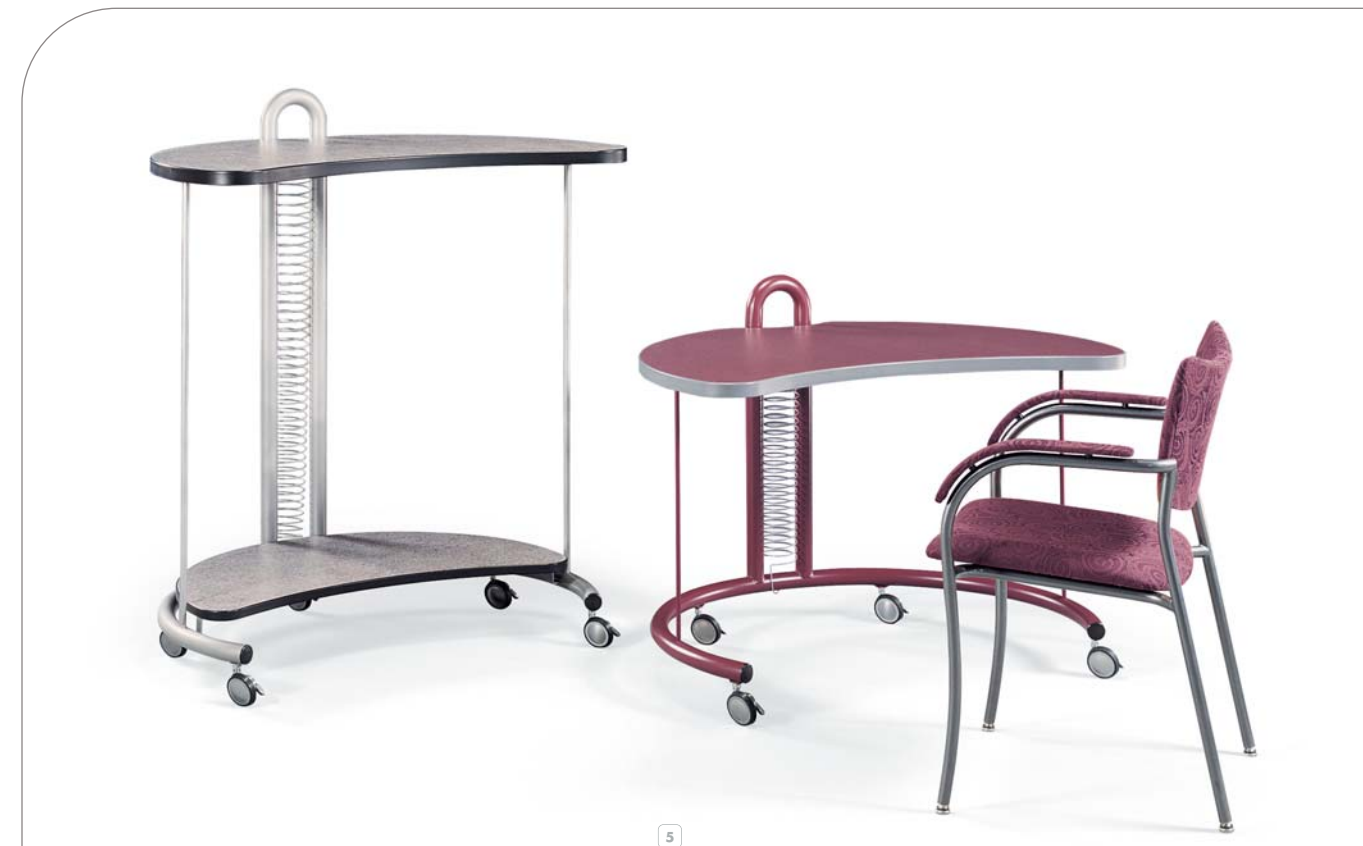

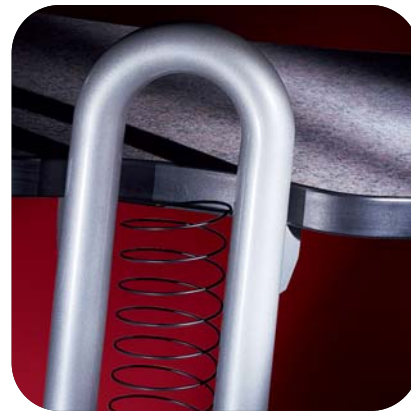

The cool thing about the Rover family is that you have a choice. Say you need a table with a large computer work surface in an alternate height with a cable coil, a shelf and locking casters. No problem. Maybe you need a smaller work surface in standing height, cable coil and a built-in mouse pad. Easy. Or maybe you just need a utility table with casters. It doesn't matter what you need, the Rover family gives you the freedom to choose.

"I operate a small business, literally. Three employees in a sardine can of an office space. I need a mobile personal space that makes efficient use of my office and affords my employees privacy. And, most importantly, I need wood work surfaces."

"Have you heard of Rover Daddy? With a large computer work surface, ample leg room, optional shelves, standard cable coil, privacy screen and modesty panels, Rover Daddy is great for any work environment. And, if you need the elegance of wood, you've got it. Choose from 11 wood finishes with coordinating edges, or from Versteel's 23 standard base colors and 10 standard coordinating edge colors."

From the ground up, Rover Daddy is well engineered and solidly constructed. But what's unique about Rover Daddy is that you get to decide how it's built. You start with a base unit and add the accessories you need. So, if you only need modesty panels and a paper shelf, that's what you'll get. If you need more shelves and a privacy screen, they're yours. Whether you need a fully loaded workstation, a rugged work cart or something in between, Rover Daddy is built to order.

"You wouldn't believe it. My alarm didn't go off 'til 8:00. I spilled coffee on my presentation. And, in my rush, I put on one navy sock and one black." "Man," he said in disbelief, "you're gonna need a miracle for this presentation to go off without a hitch." Fortunately, there's Wordplay. It may not be a miracle, but it's the next best thing. It's sleek, mobile and has an easily adjustable speaker surface. And, since Wordplay is so handsome, people won't be looking at your socks.

Yes, it's good looking, but don't let that fool you. Behind its polished exterior and refined lines Wordplay is practical. Its locking casters, for example, are more than cool, they're designed for efficiency. The footrest is beautiful in its simplicity. But upon further inspection you'll find a no slip surface that is profoundly practical. Look closely at the speaker surface and shelf. Durable powder coats combined with laminate or wood veneer belies the fact that both are adjustable and one has a built in cup holder. Beauty in utility, that's Wordplay.

"I'm not sure the Looksee fits my presentation style. It's...well... I often find myself without a partner when playing Pictionary® if you know what I mean." She knew what he meant, but she also knew that his visual inadequacy, though sad, was not cause for alarm. "You may want to reconsider Looksee. It comes with a retractable 50"x50" projection screen for the visually challenged. It can also be fitted with a deep paper shelf or a large storage tub." The beauty of Looksee is that it's engineered for anyone and everyone.

Make an impression. Illustrate your point with Wordplay. Whether you need to summarize a sales meeting or pitch a new client with a multi-media presentation, Wordplay makes it easy. Simply sketch it, turn it around then project it. And if that's not enough, Wordplay has all kinds of optional storage. Choose from a large shelf, an adjustable paper tray, an ample storage tub and a nifty marker cup.

A close-up, low-angle shot of a modern office chair's base and casters. The chair's frame is a light, metallic silver color. In the foreground, a single black castor is in sharp focus, showing its circular top and the central hub where it connects to the base. The base is a dark, cylindrical tube. In the background, another castor and the chair's frame are visible but out of focus. The floor is a light-colored, textured surface, possibly wood or stone. The lighting is soft and directional, highlighting the textures and metallic finishes.
