Great furniture designers, like the Shakers during the 18th-century and the Danish of the mid-20th century, often view design as an obligation to reflect a heightened social conscience. They strive to create objects of beauty for the betterment of everyday life. David Moser's new Meridian Collection is firmly rooted in these ideals.

The Meridian Collection is our first our first to be introduced with ash as the primary wood. While also offered in cherry, the clean, crisp aesthetic of ash creates an uplifting lightness that matches perfectly with this contemporary design.
