Rethinking the office

Is your office designed for working in more interactive ways?

The fact is, it's Time for Emerge.

Space flexibility TeamStations provide multifunctional solutions which can be rearranged in minutes to suit different activities at different times of the day. Individual desks can be simply rolled together to form a quick meeting area. This is useful for getting all heads around the table when it is time for a project meeting, saving not only time but also money – in terms of expensive office space.

Emerge is a fresh approach to office furnishing, designed to cater to the flexible structure and culture of the new organization. It is based around an innovative desk system with a light, open architecture and simple, adaptable forms.

At the heart of the organization

Emerge offers the team assistant a dynamic workstation in a variety of configuration possibilities, integrating all the necessary equipment within easy reach. The front partitioning and raised counter are both functional and aesthetic, providing the Counter complete with an attractive, cool appearance like an oasis of calm and control.

Often, it makes sense to have permanent areas for meetings, conferences and training purposes. Frisco is the ideal solution. With its light, open architecture and its wide range of shapes and configuration possibilities, it can create the perfect environment for group communication and knowledge sharing. The system's simple, but highly effective, cable management concept allows for easy integration of audio/visual support equipment such as table microphones or computer screens.
