Private yet Agile Workstations

Companies are shifting away from more traditional panel walls in search of options lighter in scale that don't sacrifice the benefits of private workstations. Altitude A8 combines mobility, scale, and height-adjustability to promote user choice and worker interaction. The result is a more collaborative and agile work environment that responds to the changing needs of business.

Efficiently Moves with the User

Altitude A8 offers the ability for privacy screens, power access, and Radian™ undermount storage to move as the height-adjustable table moves. Three different screens support various levels of privacy: L-shape provides visual privacy along aisles; U-shape offers full enclosure; Straight allows for side-by-side collaboration.

Optimization of Space

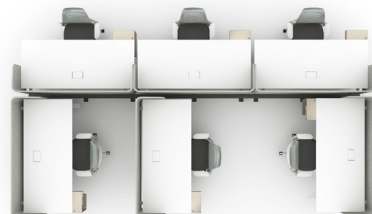

With the agility and scale of collaborative work tables and the amenities of traditional workstations – privacy, power access, and cable management – Altitude A8 is a transformative solution for the challenge of open-space planning: privacy to focus with mobility to adapt.

Adaptable Solutions

Altitude A8 has a range of options to provide exactly what you need to meet individual user requirements.

Powerful Delivery

Users can create flexible, movable, work arrangements with convenient access to power at their fingertips.

Optional memory control has bluetooth capabilities for quick adjustments from a mobile device.

The undermount utility bay conceals and visually organizes power cords beneath the worksurface.

A discreet surface-port grommet offers convenient desktop access to power.

Floor-based power and data is managed through a freestanding rail that can be configured in L, T, and X configurations.

The option of glides, sliding glides, or casters beneath table legs supports mobility and collaboration.
