The family of coordinating Reframe Tables consist of two structures and three tops, which themselves function as a structural component of the design. The square structure works with the square and round tops—conceived as coffee tables that serve as gathering points for the chairs. The rectangular structure works for the rectangular top—conceived as side tables to be placed between chairs. Tabletops feature a crisp edge that curves smoothly into a reverse bevel, which provides a foil to the rounded tops of the legs—and a complement to the crisp upholstery lines of Reframe Lounge Chairs.
