Banquette Program

Corral Banquette Program

Our Banquette Program simplifies the process of specifying made-to-spec banquettes without the high costs typically associated with fully custom designs.

By rethinking the traditional approach, we have developed a parametric design method that delivers tailored solutions for your specific project requirements. Collaborating with our engineering and fabrication teams in North Carolina, this innovative process allows us to offer custom-sized banquettes at prices comparable to standard production models.

Three distinct design options can be specified in standard sizes or tailored to fit your project needs. Perfect for hard-to-fit spaces, between columns, and in place of millwork.

Add power and table options to create highly functional seating experiences for spaces of a specific size.

Our easy-to-follow process to design and specify fully tailored banquettes for your project is outlined here.

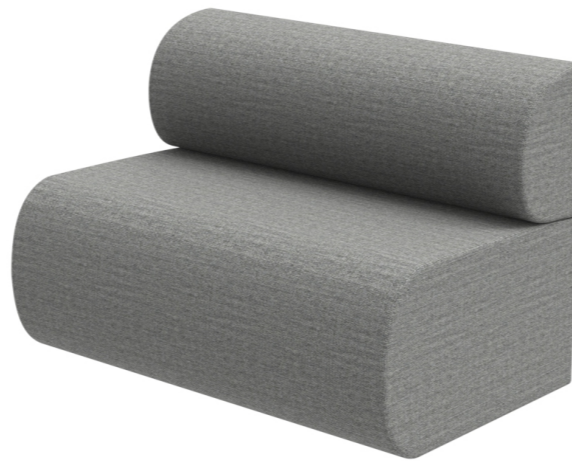

Step 1: Start with a profile We offer three distinct profiles that each have standard sizes but whose width, depth, and height can also be adjusted to fit your specifications. Pick a standard or we can create an entirely tailored module size for you.

Harbor

Step 2: Select a base option and add power Pick from three base options and add power if needed. Corral will work with you to identify the right power solution for your application.

Step 3: Provide Corral with profile, dims, and fabric At this stage our team will work with you on dimensions and power locations if needed for your banquette. Our banquettes are available using the Corral graded in options or available as a COM. Let us know your fabric spec and we'll provide the yardage based on your dimensions and selected profile.

Step 4: Consider Banquette Add-Ons We offer accompanying planters to integrate behind, beside, and between banquette modules. For booth settings, you can utilize planters to separate groupings and cafe tables to complete the setting.

Step 5: Corral gets to work Corral will draw up your banquette with the selected profile and dimensions provided. We'll create and share renderings and CAD blocks with you to add to your drawings.
